VOL. 9. No. 26 — CHARLEROI, WASHINGTON CO., PA. FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1908 — One Cent.

STAMP AGENT IN CHARLEROI

Three Prominent Business Houses Were Visited This Morning.

A well dressed young lady visited the grocery store of William Parks on Fifth street this moring and endeavored to sell Mr. Parks a supply of two cent stamps. Not being in the market for a heavy supply at present he did not make a purchase. The Savings and Trust company, and Welters Pharmacy were also visted by the stamp agent and offered her wares but met with the same result as at the Parks grocery.

After the young lady had left Mr. Parks grocery his suspicions were aroused as the sale of two cent stamps at face value was not a very profitable business, unless the goods had been secured in a shady manner. He called up Chief Albright and gave him a description of the agent and an immediate search was made but the fair one seems to have jumped the town as there is no trace of her

BOY ATTACKED BY HIS COMPANIONS

West Alexander, Sept. 10.—Because Bert Larimer, aged about 12 years, was accused of stealing a baseball glove from his companions eight of the boys whose ages range from 10 to 14 years hid in ambush last evening and after stoning the lad for some time fell upon him and beat him with their fists.

An information was made before the burgess this morning against the [redacted] they were arrested by [redacted] Davis. They were [redacted] before Burgess Will- [redacted] morning and each boy it [redacted] guilty to the charge [redacted] $1 and costs of prosecu- [redacted] amounted to $2.37. The [redacted]e given until tomorrow morn- [redacted]ay their fines and the costs or [redacted]ed over to the juvenile court [redacted]rities.

Young Larimer, who resides near the edge of the borough and attends school in town delivers milk to a number of customers in town each evening after school hours. The boys of the town, it is said, accused Larimer of stealing a baseball glove from them. Larimer denied the charge and last evening when he came to town to deliver the milk the eight boys began stoning him and throwing any old missile they could get hold of. The lad was hit by several of the flying objects but finally escaped. He went on with the delivering of the milk but when he reached the top of the hill the boys had reached there before him and were ambushed. They finally resorted to their fists to use the lad up. He made a good showing despite the fact that they were eight to one but received a good sound beating.

The father of the boy made the information against the youngsters and their arrest followed. It is not known whether the lads have paid their fines or not and it is understood that some of the parents have refused to pay for them.

HALEY NOW IN HANDS OF SHERIFF

At the instance of J. H. Underwood and Robert Parkins an execution was issued yesterday afternoon on Edward Haley, proprietor of the Central hotel, which recently figured in court. In the hearing for the transfer of Mr. Haley's license, which transfer was refused, Mr. Haley stated that unless he could dispose of his hotel and license the sheriff would be on him and his prediction appears to be true.

The execution was issued upon a judegment note held by the plaintiffs against Mr. Haley for $23,567.89. Deputy Sheriff Samuel J. Howe went to Roscoe and made a levy on the personal propety of Mr. Haley, which includes the saloon. The above action will likely result in the sale of the hotel property.

The court in its opinion refusing the transfer did so particularly for the reason that the party who wanted the license was not the bona fide owner of the hotel, and was buying the license rather than the hotel. The court requires bona fide ownership of the building by the party applying for a license. Mr. Haley admitted in his testimony at the recent hearing that the hotel and saloon business did not pay with him and that his indebtedness had been increasing instead of decreasing, even after one of the licensed places was taken away from Roscoe. The Central hotel is one of the best locations in Roscoe.

Haley is heavily involved financially. The records show the following judgments against him: $1,600 in favor of James Bryne; $2,500 in favor of Robert Lewin and Co.; $15,000 in favor of Adam Bachman and two notes for $700 each in favor of the First National bank, of Roscoe, now held by the Washington Trust company as collateral, in the sum of $15,000 is also on record. This is first lien.

WELL KNOWN COUPLE MARRIED

A very pretty wedding ceremony was preformed Wednesday afternoon at the home of the Rev. D. T. McGill of Chartiers street, Allegheny, when the marriage of Miss Carrie Belle Piper of Charleroi and Mr. Edgar Kisinger of Brownsville, was solemnized.

Both parties have a multitude of friends who wish them a happy journey through life.

LAST OF SERIES TAKEN BY CHERUBS

Fayette City Boys Tied It Up In Eighth Inning.

Fayette City got busy with the big stick in the eighth inning of yesterdays game and scared the Cherubs out of a year's expansion. Charleroi had everything their own way until the seventh when the visitors scored two and H. Elliot and his small brother Gene did the work in the eighth.

Fayette opened things up by scoring the first run. O'Brien got hit and Gene Elliott sent him to third with a single. After Wilson had popped one to Dailey. H. Elliott drove one to Dunn who threw to first and O'Brien scored.

With three on base in the first for Charleroi. Toohey stung one for a single that sent two runs over. With two down in the second Nally singled and stole second from where he came home on Cosgrove's donble. Another was made in the fourth on a double by Nally and a single by Dailey.

Fayette's two runs in the seventh were the results of three singles and a base on balls, one of the singles being a short fly which Urben and Dunn let fall between them. Wilson singled in the eighth and H. Elliott followed with tripple which tied up the game. The ninth and tenth were blanks for the miners but Charleroi shoved a run over in their half of the extra inning on a base on balls, a sacrifice and an error. Score:

GOOD BOXING SHOW AT MONESSEN

There was such a small crowd at Monongahela on Labor Day that the fight between Ned Chernoff and Peter Conors did not take place. It has been arranged whereby the fight will be pulled off next Monday night at the Arcade, Monessen.

Frank Corese, of Monaca, Beaver county, was arrested on Monday on a charge of burglary and a search of his room disclosed 300 tumblers of jelly and in a trunk were gold watches, jewelry, silverware, glassware, dry goods and $80 in money. Many of the articles have been identified by the owners.

An excursion train bound for Moosic Lake, near Scranton, on the Dunmore and Moosic Lake railroad, ran off the track and two cars were overthrown on Monday afternoon. Thirty passengers were injured.

Pottsville had a big Labor Day demonstration on Monday, with 5,000 men and twelve bands of music in the parade and 5,000 people from various parts of the Schuylkill valley thronged the city.

FRATERNAL DAY DREW BIG CROWD

Streets Were Thronged With Visitors From All Along Valley.

Monongahela, Pa., Sept. 10.—Early this morning hundreds of people began arriving by train and boat and many from the surrounding country drove in early for fraternal day of the Old Home week. Long before night the streets were packed with people looking for a good time and renewing old acquaintances.

Owing to the crowd Mayor Blankenbuehler before noon had notices posted instructing officers to keep all teams and rigs off Main, Chess, Second and Fourth streets between that hours of 5 and 10 o'clock, and many special officers were sworn in to handle the crowds. Throughout the day old friends gathered together and with bands marched over the principal streets of the city.

This afternoon the high school class of '72 gathered at the store of A. M. Gregg and organized to march to the home of Mrs. Margaret Yohe on Fourth street, where their old-time teacher, Mrs. Kate Clemons Davidson, was stopping, and then with her in a cart drawn by a burro and led by ex-Mayor R. L. Ellwood they marched over the principal streets of the town back of Eckles' Drum Corps, carrying a large banner bearing the inscriptio "This is Kate Clemons' Class."

When she was taken back to the home where she is visiting her girl and boy pupils of 36 years ago gathered about her and, after lifting her from the cart, presented her with a [redacted] of the kind she used to use on [redacted]. She seemed dazed by the re- [redacted]ption tendered her and when she tried to thank them broke down in the middle of her speech and cried. Many of the old-time boys and girls hid their eyes from the teacher, whose hair is now white. As they marched through the street they swung the switches they carried and sang "She Swithed Us in '72."

The largest family reunion held today was that of the Yohe, Weygandt and Stretched families, with more than 200 members of the three branches of the family present, coming from four States.

The oldest living member of these families present today were Henry Yohe, aged 91 years, of Gettysburg; John Stecher, aged 76 years, of near here, and Mrs. Sadie Williams of this county. Members were present from Pennsylvania, Ohio, Iowa and Oklahoma, and hundreds of letters recevied from all parts of the county were read. The officers of the family are president, Isaac Yohe; sceretary and treasurer, A. J. Yohe, both of this place. Ginger Hill, near here, will be the place of meeting next year, as has been the custom in the past, that being the original settling place of the families.

McKeesport was the best represented of any town today and tonight the railroad companie stated that they had [redacted] 3,800 round trip tickets out of that [redacted] to this city up to noon today.

A. T. McAlister was chief marshal of tonight's parade, with H K. Bentley, adjutant general. They were assisted in organizing the parade by 100 aids, who were appointed yesterday. Members of the fraternal orders of McKeesport, Belle Vernon, Charleroi and several other towns arrived on special trains they had chartered for the occasion, while many from Pittsburg and towns nearby arrived on chartered cars over the line of the Pittsburg and Charleroi Street Railway company.

Each order marched in a body and many brought their own bands with them. Tonight's parade of fraternal orders is said to be the largest united celberation of different orders ever held in the State.

Orders were received at Lebanon on Monday from the Lakawanna Iron and Steel company's general office to place in operation at once one of the twin Colebrook furnaces at West Lebanon, which has been idle ten months. Two hundred men will get employment.

An uknown person fired a shot through the window of a Kittanning and Leechburg trolley car narrowly missing the conductor, who was adjusting a curtain.

BRIDGE CONTRACT WILL BE LET

Fort Pitt Bridge Co. Of Cannonsburg Were Lowest Bidders.

It is likey that the Fort Pitt Bridge company, of Canonsburg, will be awarded the contract of the erection of the joint county bridge over the Monongahela river at Monongahela to take the place of the old Williamsport pike bridge.

Yesterday William Wylie, road and bridge enigneer of Washington county, Solicitor Brownson, Clerk H E. Campbell and the county commissioners met with the Allegheny county commissioners and J. G. Chalfant, the Allegheny county engineer, for the purpose of tabulating bids that had been received.

The Canonsubrg concern bid against numerous Pittsburg firms. Fort Pit Bridge works was by far the lowest of any which, was calculated by Engineer Wylie, are: Fort Pitt Bridge works, $217,042; King Bridge company, $234,112; McClintock-Marshall, $236,414; American Bridge company, $298,000; Penn Steel works, $248,780; Mt. Vernon Bridge, $247,030; Penn Bridge, $247,345; Stroebel Steel Construction company, $272,594; Toledo Massilon, $246,330.

Superstructure—3 trusses 455 feet long each, with a 24-foot roadway on which are two street car tracks one six-foot wide walk, floors and all wood work of treated kerodone construction.

Substructure—Two river piers of stone on pile and concret foundations and two concrete abutments with wrings and reinforced with steel. Approaches are to be filled and paved.

BABY DROWNS IN A CISTERN

Waynesburg, Sept. 10.—A tiny baby slipper on a cistern's edge and the covering of the well removed was the first clew as to the tragic fate of five-year-old Wayne Coston, who was drowned this afternoon in ten feet of water in the cistern of D. W. Downey, of this place.

The little fellow was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Ollie and Margaret Coston, colored. His mother had been employed at the Downey residence today. This afternoon he was missed and a search of the preimses disclosed the shoe that had probably been kicked off as he gazed down into the dark depths of the cistern, leaned over the edge and losing his balance plunged headlong into the water. Wayne's body was brought from the water by E. B. Throckmoron and Bert Rinehart.

One of the original Conestoga wagons has been found by Charles Jarr, an antiquarian of Lancaster, on the farm of National Groff, of Fruitville, near Lancaster. It will be used in the Founders' week parade in Philadelphia in October, drawn by six horses from the farm of F. H. Kaufman, near Lancaster.

Professor Joseph Rostan, of Philadelphia, in a crowd at the gate of the baseball grounds at Shamokin, on Monday, was robbed by a pickpocket of $150 in cash and several gold rings.

The national convention of the American Veterans of Foreign Service opened a four days' session in Lebanon on Monday, with more than 1,000 delegates in attendance.

STOLEN HORSE HAS BEEN RETURNED

Beallsville, Sept. 10.—The horse and buggy belonging to Marvin Frederick, of Beallsville, which was stolen at the Sandy Plains fair last week has been recovered by the owner.

Wednesday a week ago a stranger drove up in front of Brown's livery barn at Masontown and then departed. Mr. Brown thought he was a drummer and stabled the horse. He did not call for it, and after keeping it a week he heard of Mr. Frederick's missing horse and buggy. Investigation proved that it was the property of Frederick.

SMALL PIG COSTS AN IMMENSE SUM

The case of misdemeanor brought by Health Officer Frazier, of Moressen, against David Greenawald, former manager of the Independent Meat Grocery Co., was tried for the second time in the Greensburg courts yesterday. The second trial occupied less time than the first but the results were more pronounced. The jury after an hour of deliberation divided the costs between the defendant and Moris Rozrer, a rival butcher. upon whose information Officer Frazier brought the suit. The costs amounted to $193.15 and considering that a small pig furnished the bone of contention the little flyer in pork ala court is likely to rest vividly in the memory of the principals for some time.

The readers of The Mail will likely recollect that in December last a pig, allegec to have been tainted was purchased by an attache of the Rozner market from the Independent market. The health officer was summoned and suit was brought before a local justice. Mr. Greenawald was held for court trial. That the act was prompted by business jealousy was one of Greenawald's contentions, and he further claimed that he had giver orders that the pig was not to be sold. His absence from the shop was taken advantage of to secure the pig from a clerk he claimed.

After 25 hours deliberation a former jury failed to reach a decision. This time the jury went out at 4 o'clock and returned at 5 o'clock with a verdict dividing the costs.

BLOCK SOCIAL NEXT WEEK

The Ladies' Aid Society of Christ Lutheran church are holding a Block Carnival next week on Washington avenue between Fifth and Sixth streets. This carnival will be held three nights, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, 17-19. It is to be one of the features of Charleroi, and no one will want to miss being there. One of the many interesting features is the Queen Contest for the most popular lady in the Aid Society. The Mail will publish each evening the results of the day's voting. Each vote will cost one cent, and any one may vote as many times as desired. The contest will open tonight and the first report will appear in tomorrow evening's Mail. The contest will close Saturday evening, Sept 19. The lady receiving the highest number of votes will be considered the most popular.

Who will it be? Watch the Daily Mail the whole of next week; it will be interesting. Hennng's Drug Store is one of the places of voting.

The Duties of Peace Officers

The stories of the New Haven shooting are radically conflicting, and until the matter is sifted in court judgment will have to be suspended by those who desire to be just and impartial.

As a rule the officer of the law is entitled to the benefit of the doubt when the testimony is conflicting for two very obvious reasons: 1. Because he deals with the reckless and criminal classes whose testimony is often characteristic of themselves; 2. Because he is presumed to be sworn by the people with a view to his fitness, and among his qualifications is the capacity to sink his personality in the greater duty of conserving the peace and enforcing the law impartially and courageously. There is consequently this presumption in his favor.

The officer who uses his position for purposes of oppression of revenge, the gratification of silly vanity or petty malice, abuses his authority and besmirches the majesty of the law he pretends to represent; and when accused of exceeding his duty, proof of any of these wrongs or weakness can will tend to deprive him of the benefit of the doubt accorded to his official station.

We are all equal before the law, and in its administration the American sense of justice will tolerate no suspicion of personal motive. The judges who hear the causes in court are so jealous of their honor that they will sit in no case in which they may have the remotest connection, and the jurors who sit in judgment on the facts are chose with strict regard to their freedom from the least suspicion of bias.

To keep their official conduct free from the same suspicion, peace officers should mode it on similar lines. They should shun arrogance and cultivate dignity; avoid excitabiltiy and practice patience; eschew boisterous language and keep their tempers under the most trying conditions; be courteous and obliging, but firm and undiscriminating; all of the end that the authority of their office be respectable duties may be done without resort to violence or bloodshed.

Violent and unreasonable offenders sometimes render fore, and even violence and bloodshed, necessary to the proper enforcement of the law. Whether that was the case in New Haven remains to be determined, as stated above, when the evidence is all in; in the meantime, however, these general observations are commended to peace officers generally.

EXPERTS VISIT COAL FIELDS

Fayette county coal and coke men are greatly interested in the visit to the coal regions of the United States of three foreign experts, Victor Wateyne of Belgium, Capt. Arthur Desbrough of England and Karl Moissner of Germany, who were invited by the United States government and are guests of the government.

These experts are inspecting the mines and plants of this country, learning all about the methods of mining here, conferring with prominent coal men in return are giving the mining interests of this country the benefit of their expert knowledge of mining and explaining the systems used in foreign countries.

Mining operations in foreign countreis are much more difficult and hazardous than in the United States, for in Europe many of the mines go down a distance of 3,000 feet and the operators and miners must have a very thorough knowledge of the gases and how to combat them and all the methods to bring about successful, safe and profitable mining.

During the present week these expert have been in Pittsburg and among those who met and conferred with them there were Attorney Geo. D. Howell, president of the Tower Hill-Connellsville Coke company, and Geo. Whyel, general manager of the Consolidated Connellsville Coke company. Mr. Howell went there by special invitation of J. A. Holmes, expert in charge of the technologic branch of the geological survey, and was much interested in the subjects discussed there.

The government has appropriated $150,000 for the testing station of the United States geological survey which is being built in Pittsburg, and will be opened in December which will instruct mine foremen fire bosses and others on the theory of explosions and give infomation of vital importance to those who work in the mines.

The movement has been started to celebrate the opening of this testing station in December with a great International Mining Congress to be held in Pittsburg to which the ambassadors of all foreign countries will be invited and the great mining interests of this country will be represented by men of recognized authority. For instance John Hays Hammond will be delegate for the copper interests and it is not likely anyone else would be designated for the coal interests than J. V. Thompson of Uniontown, who is generally conceded as being the best posted man that could be secured on this subject.

The three foreign experts mentioned above went from Pittsburg to visit the Illinois coal fields and will go from there to Utah and Washington mines. They will return to Pittsburg in October and it is expected to get them to visit and inspect the Fayette county region at that time.

The opening tests at the station in Pittsburg were made this week for the benefit of these mining experts. The tests will probably extend over several months and no official data of the results will be given out until they are over.

The first test was made with a ballistic pendulum, in which black powder was exploded to determine weight equivalent in explosive force to one-half pounds of 70 per cent dynamite.

GOOD PRACTICE BY WEST WASHINGTON

Football practice by the West Washington squad will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon instead of in the evening as during the week. "Budget" Seaman who expected to coach the West Enders last evening could not be on hands but has promised to come to the Fair grounds tomorrow afternoon.

Practices has been hard and very successful. Shan Margerum, the Washington and Jefferson Academy coach was out Wednesday evening and gave the candidates some valuable pointers. Manager Kahl is in communication with teams that if games are secured it will mean extensive trips for the West Washington eleven.

The filter beds that are being made by the Pottstown Water company will be ready for use in a few weeks.

Health Commissioner Says Water Should be Boiled.

Realizing the added danger from the tpyhoid fever that results from the present low condition of the streams throughout Pennsylvania, State Health Commissioner Dixon has given out a letter to the public urging the need of special caution against unboiled water.

Dr. Dixon states that although municipalities all over the state are operating with the deparment of health to bring about the purifying of the streams, it must necessarily be years before the filthy conditions that prevailed for so many generations can be eradicated.

In the three years of the state department of health's existence thousands of stream pollutions have been abated, and a great campaign of education has been carried on, attended with the most encouraging results. A large number of municipalities have either built sewage disposal plants and water filtration systems, or are at work on them and there has come to be a general belief in the wisdom and necessity of the law which provides for the ultimate freeing of the waters of the state from sewage pollution.

"Our work, however," says Health Commissioner Dixon, "extends over 45,000 square miles, inhabited by 7,000,000 people, who for over a century have been using our streams for open sewers or depositing the sewage so that it washed into the waters that ware used for drinking and other domestic purposes. Much has been accomplished, but our people must not be deceived. Typhoid fever is still a present curse, and we must not relax our vigilance in guarding against its invasion.

"Espeicially is this true just now when so many of our streams are at a low ebb, resulting in more concentrated typhoid fever poison than we have where the same quantity of poison is poured into a greater volume of water.

"While the health authorities are doing all in their power under the law to have the vast number of old and bad sewerage systems changed and to have the private sources of pollution removed, the people must listen to advice and boil all the water that comes from the surface streams and from all other sources which are exposed to the infection of the poison of typhoid fever. Unless the people do heed this advice and go hand in hand with the health authorities by taking every precaution, they run a very great risk of contracting typhoid fever. I feel it my duty to sound this warning at this time.

Kept Marriage a Secret.

West Alexander, Sept. 10.—The wanderings of a traveling man which took him to Cumberland, Md., revealed the marriage of a prominent young couple of West Alexander which they had hoped to keep a secret for some time to come. The young couple, however, acknowledged that they were married and are now receiving the congratulations of their friends. They are George Donley, a well known young carpenter, and Miss Margaret Strouse.

Mr. Donley and Miss Strouse were married in Cumberland on Saturday, August 23, in the parlors of the Queen City hotel at 9:30 p. m. They returned home on Sunday following and no one was any the wiser. They were congratulating themselves about how well they were keeping the secret until James Waitier, who resides at this place and travels for a Pittsburg grocery firm, arrived home from Cumberland where he had been on business. While in Cumberland Mr. Waitier was conversing with a minister who asked him about Mr. Donley and Miss Strouse stating that he had united them in marriage two weeks previous. When Mr. Waitier returned home he informed his friends and later Mr. and Mrs. Donley acknowledged their marriage. Their parents had not been informed it is stated.

Miss Strouse left home on August 23 stating that she was going to Wheeling to visit a cousin. Donley had left West Alexander a few hours previous stating that he was going to Moundsville. The two met at Wheeling and borded a train for Cumberland at 10 o'clock.

It is understood that there was no objections to the marriage beyond the fact that the bride had not yet reached her 19th year. The young people of town gave Mr. and Mrs. Donley a rousing serenade and afterward were invited in to partake of refreshments. They will reside for the present with the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Donley.

The West Chester state normal school re-opened on Monday with more than 500 students enrolled.

Waiter—Haven't you forgotten something, sor?

Diner—Great Scott, yes! My wife told me to water the plants while she is away.—New York Sun.

There is a certain mother in East Washington who is looking for a rag collector of Washington, and if she catches him he will be told a few things about rag men in general and himself in particular that will cause him to be on guard in his business dealings in the future.

The lady in question is the happy mother of twin sons. One of these future presidents the other day heard the rag man's calling, and asked his mother to explain the man's business. The mother carefully expounded to the youngster the nature of the rag man's calling. A day or so later the mother noticed that this particular youngster was running about in his bare feet, and asked him where his shoes and stockings were. The five-year-old boy looked wise and answered promptly, "sold, 'em."

"Who to," asked his mother.

"The rag man," answered the boy.

"How much did you get for them," was the next question.

"Five cents," the boy replied.

"But what did you do with the money?" asked the mother.

"Candy," laconically replied the boy. The rag man is leaving that end of town off his beat for a while.

Making More Than a Living

Nearly every man who works steadily makes more than a living. During these slow times the men who have saved something appreciate what it is to have something laid away for a rainy day. A few cents a day soon counts up, and when savings are placed in a bank at a tidy interest the sum soon grows to proportions that make it a safeguard against want when work is not plentiful. Figure up how much more than a living you are making now, and place the difference in this bank. Four per cent. intereet paid in savings department.

The Store that Advocates Law Compelling Truth in Advertising!

When a store fools you into entering its doors by Fictitious Newspaper Values, it will fool you again when it gets you there! If you are set on looking elsewhere before coming to Adolph's, keep both eyes wide open and beat a hasty retreat when they tell you they are "just out, but have something else as good!" We can quote wonderful prices in the newspapers and GIVE YOU THE GOODS EXACTLY AS ADVERTISED, because we buy them right and have a little expense and do a volume of business doubly that of any other local house in same line. If every store told the good old truth in their advertising, our prices would show in comparison 25 to 50 per cent. lower in the newspapers, just as they do when your own eyes have actually investigated!

AN AMERICAN HERO.

He Used His Own Body to Stop a Leak in a Ferryboat.

One morning in January, when the ice in the Hudson river ran unusually heavy, a Hoboken ferryboat slowly crunched her way through the floating floes until the thickness of the pack choked her paddles in midriver. It was an early morning trip, and the decks were crowded with laboring men and the driveways choked with teams. The women and children standing inside the cabins were a solid mass up to the swinging doors. While she was gathering strength for a further effort an ocean tug sheered to avoid her, veered a point and crashed into her side, cutting her below the water line in a great V shaped gash. A moment more and the disabled boat careened from the shock and fell over on her beam, helpless. Into the V shaped gash the water poured a torrent. It seemed but a question of minutes before she would lunge headlong below the ice.

Within 200 yards of both boats and free of the heavy ice steamed the wrecking tug Reliance of the Offshore Wrecking company, and on her deck forward stood Captain Scott. When the ocean tug reversed her engines after the collision and backed clear of the shattered wheelhouse of the ferryboat he sprang forward, stooped down, ran his eye along the water line, noted in a flash every shattered plank, climbed into the pilothouse of his own boat and before the astonished pilot could catch his breath pushed the nose of the Reliance along the rail of the ferryboat and dropped upon the latter's deck like a cat.

With a threat to throw overboard any man who stirred he dropped into the engine room, met the engineer halfway up the ladder, compelled him to return, dragged the mattresses from the crew's bunks, stripped off blankets and snatched up clothes, overalls, cotton waste and rags of carpet, cramming them into the great rent left by the tug's cutwater.

It was useless. Little by little the water gained, bursting out first below, then on one side, only to be calked out again and only to rush in once more.

Captain Scott stood a moment as if undecided, ran his eye searchingly over the engine room, saw that for his needs it was empty, then deliberately tore down the top wall calking he had so carefully built up and before the engineer could protest forced his own body into the gap, with his arm outside level with the drifting ice.

An hour later the disabled ferryboat, with every soul on board, was towed into the Hoboken slip.

When they lifted the captain from the wreck he was unconscious and barely alive. The water had frozen his blood, and the floating ice had torn the flesh from his protruding arm from shoulder to wrist. When the color began to creep back to his cheeks he opened his eyes and said to the doctor who was winding the bandages:

"Wuz any of them babies hurt?"

A month passed before he regained his strength and another week before the arm had healed so that he could get his coat on. Then he went back to the Reliance.—Everybody's Magazine.

A Lesson in Patience.

When the eminent botanist, Professor Aitman of Glasgow, was a small boy, he had the present of a silver bit, whereupon his mother was so worried with questions as to what he should do with it that she exclaimed, "Really, you had better go to Thomas Elliot's (a well known pharmacist) and buy sixpence worth of patience."

Down the street marched the lad and demanded of the chemist, "Mr. Elliot, please give me sixpence worth of patience."

Mr. Elliot, taking in the situation at a glance, said: "Certainly, my boy; there's a chair. Just sit down and wait till you get it."

Professor Aitman's endeavor to purchase patience was a great success. It made a deep impression on the lad and was one of the factors of his success in life.

Outreasoning Reason.

Little Raymond's mother had told him that she should put him to bed if he disobeyed her command in a certain matter. Temptation overcame him, and when his mother proceeded to fulfill her duty sobs of anguish filled the room.

"But, Raymond," said the mother gently, "I told you I should punish you in this way if you disobeyed, and mother must keep her word, you know."

Between muffled sobs Raymond managed to say, "You needn't break your word, mamma, but couldn't you change your mind?"—Woman's Home Companion.

The Tactful Doctor.

A physician in a small town in northern Michigan got himself into a serious predicament by his inability to remember names and people. One day while making out a patient's receipt his visitor's name escaped him. Not wishing to appear so forgetful and thinking to get a clew, he asked her whether she spelled her name with an "e" or "i." The lady smilingly replied, "Why, doctor, my name is Hill."—Success Magazine.

Your Enemies.

Don't make enemies unnecessarily. Your friends don't do much for you, as you all know, but your enemies will lie awake nights looking for opportunity to take a shot at you. And you all know that too.—Atchison Globe.

An Idiotic Performance.

The idiotic peformance of the Nebarska senator, Mr. Burkett, has again raised that precious saininity of an issue, Mr. Taft's religious affiliations. In a recent speech at Lincoln, Senator Burkett was so unwise as to denounce as a wicked invention for the enemy the story that Mr. Taft was a Unitarian. The report to that effect, he declared, was started for political purposes, and, in his opinion, it was shameful. Mr. Burkett "put his foot in it," from all sorts of angles, by charging the democrats with trying to make out "Mr. Taft a Catholic, an infidel or a Unitarian, and now it appeared he was not even a Unitarian." In support of this statement the Nebraska senator read a letter from a Presbyterian clergyman in Cincinnati saying that Mr. Taft did not belong to the Unitarian church. Mr. Burkett's discomfiture is complete now that Mr. Taft's secretary has written to him the horrible truth, and the democrats in that religion, who indignantly deny that they are raising a religious issue, are correspondingly elated over the mess the senator has made of the matter.

Meteorological.

Little Carleton was a child of the south, having been born in Mexico, and lived there until he came to "the States" with his parents when four or five years of age. But, though unacquainted with the American climate, he had been brought up on good American customs and foodstuffs. The first sight of snow excited him greatly. After looking out of the window earnestly he turned and exclaimed:

Reassured.

"G-g-good evening," said the young man, who had come to speak to the girl's father.

"Good evening," replied the old gentleman. "You look a little nervous. How do you feel?"

STAMP AGENT IN CHARLEROI

Three Prominent Business Houses Were Visited This Morning.

A well dressed young lady visited the grocery store of William Parks on Fifth street this moring and endeavored to sell Mr. Parks a supply of two cent stamps. Not being in the market for a heavy supply at present he did not make a purchase. The Savings and Trust company, and Welters Pharmacy were also visted by the stamp agent and offered her wares but met with the same result as at the Parks grocery.

After the young lady had left Mr. Parks grocery his suspicions were aroused as the sale of two cent stamps at face value was not a very profitable business, unless the goods had been secured in a shady manner. He called up Chief Albright and gave him a description of the agent and an immediate search was made but the fair one seems to have jumped the town as there is no trace of her.

BOY ATTACKED BY HIS COMPANIONS

West Alexander, Sept. 10.—Because Bert Larimer, aged about 12 years, was accused of stealing a baseball glove from his companions eight of the boys whose ages range from 10 to 14 years hid in ambush last evening and after stoning the lad for some time fell upon him and beat him with their fists.

An information was made before the burgess this morning against the [illegible] they were arrested by [illegible] Davis. They were [illegible] before Burgess Will- [illegible]orning and each boy it [illegible] guilty to the charge [illegible] $1 and costs of prosecu- [illegible] amounted to $2.37. The [illegible]e given until tomorrow morn- [illegible]ay their fines and the costs or [illegible]ned over to the juvenile court [illegible]rities.

Young Larimer, who resides near the edge of the borough and attends school in town delivers milk to a number of customers in town each evening after school hours. The boys of the town, it is said, accused Larimer of stealing a baseball glove from them. Larimer denied the charge and last evening when he came to town to deliver the milk the eight boys began stoning him and throwing any old missile they could get hold of. The lad was hit by several of the flying objects but finally escaped. He went on with the delivering of the milk but when he reached the top of the hill the boys had reached there before him and were ambushed. They finally resorted to their fists to use the lad up. He made a good showing despite the fact that they were eight to one but received a good sound beating.

The father of the boy made the information against the youngsters and their arrest followed. It is not known whether the lads have paid their fines or not and it is understood that some of the parents have refused to pay for them.

At the instance of J. H. Underwood and Robert Parkins an execution was issued yesterday afternoon on Edward Haley, proprietor of the Central hotel, which recently figured in court. In the hearing for the transfer of Mr. Haley's license, which transfer was refused, Mr. Haley stated that unless he could dispose of his hotel and license the sheriff would be on him and his prediction appears to be true.

The execution was issued upon a judgement note held by the plaintiffs against Mr. Haley for $23,567.89. Deputy Sheriff Samuel J. Howe went to Roscoe and made a levy on the personal propety of Mr. Haley, which includes the saloon. The above action will likely result in the sale of the hotel property.

The court in its opinion refusing the transfer did so particularly for the reason that the party who wanted the license was not the bona fide owner of the hotel, and was buying the license rather than the hotel. The court requires bona fide ownership of the building by the party applying for a license. Mr. Haley admitted in his testimony at the recent hearing that the hotel and saloon business did not pay with him and that his indebtedness had been increasing instead of decreasing, even after one of the licensed places was taken away from Roscoe. The Central hotel is one of the best locations in Roscoe.

Haley is heavily involved financially. The records show the following judgments against him: $1,600 in favor of James Bryne; $2,500 in favor of Robert Lewin and Co.; $15,000 in favor of Adam Bachman and two notes for $500 each in favor of the First National bank, of Roscoe, now held by the Washington Trust company as collateral, in the sum of $15,000 is also on record. This is first lien.

WELL KNOWN COUPLE MARRIED

A very pretty wedding ceremony was preformed Wednesday afternoon at the home of the Rev. D. T. McGill of Chartiers street, Allegheny, when the marriage of Miss Carrie Belle Piper of Charleroi and Mr. Edgar Kisinger of Brownsville, was solemnized.

Both parties have a multitude of friends who wish them a happy journey through life.

Fayette City got busy with the big stick in the eighth inning of yesterdays game and scared the Cherubs out of a year's expansion. Charleroi had everything their own way until the seventh when the visitors scored two and H. Elliot and his small brother Gene did the work in the eighth.

Fayette opened things up by scoring the first run. O'Brien got hit and Gene Elliott sent him to third with a single. After Wilson had popped one to Dailey, H. Elliott drove one to Dunn who threw to first and O'Brien scored.

With three on base in the first for Charleroi. Toobey stung one for a single that sent two runs over. With two down in the second Nally singled and stole second from where he came home on Cosgrove's double. Another was made in the fourth on a double by Nally and a single by Dailey.

Fayette's two runs in the seventh were the results of three singles and a base on balls, one of the singles being a short fly which Urben and Dunn let fall between them. Wilson singled in the eighth and H. Elliott followed with tripple which tied up the game. The ninth and tenth were blanks for the miners but Charleroi shoved a run over in their half of the extra inning on a base on balls, a sacrifice and an error. Score:

GOOD BOXING SHOW AT MONESSEN

There was such a small crowd at Monongahela on Labor Day that the fight between Ned Chernoff and Peter Conors did not take place. It has been arranged whereby the fight will be pulled off next Monday night at the Arcade, Monessen.

Frank Corese, of Monaca, Beaver county, was arrested on Monday on a charge of burglary and a search of his room disclosed 300 tumblers of jelly and in a trunk were gold watches, jewelry, silverware, glassware, dry goods and $80 in money. Many of the articles have been identified by the owners.

An excursion train bound for Moosic Lake, near Scranton, on the Dunmore and Moosic Lake railroad, ran off the track and two cars were overthrown on Monday afternoon. Thirty passengers were injured.

Pottsville had a big Labor Day demonstration on Monday, with 5,000 men and twelve bands of music in the parade and 5,000 people from various parts of the Schuylkill valley thronged the city.

FRATERNAL DAY DREW BIG CROWD

Streets Were Thronged With Visitors From All Along Valley.

Monongahela, Pa., Sept. 10.—Early this morning hundreds of people began arriving by train and boat and many from the surrounding country drove in early for fraternal day of the Old Home week. Long before night the streets were packed with people looking for a good time and renewing old acquaintances.

Owing to the crowd Mayor Blankenbuehler before noon had notices posted instructing officers to keep all teams and rigs off Main, Chess, Second and Fourth streets between that hours of 5 and 10 o'clock, and many special officers were sworn in to handle the crowds. Throughout the day old friends gathered together and with bands marched over the principal streets of the city.

This afternoon the high school class of '72 gathered at the store of A. M. Gregg and organized to march to the home of Mrs. Margaret Yohe on Fourth street, where their old-time teacher, Mrs. Kate Clemons Davidson, was stopping, and then with her in a cart drawn by a burro and led by ex-Mayor R. L. Ellwood they marched over the principal streets of the town back of Eckles' Drum Corps, carrying a large banner bearing the inscriptio "This is Kate Clemons' Class."

When she was taken back to the home where she is visiting her girl and boy pupils of 36 years ago gathered about her and, after lifting her from the cart, presented her with a rug of the kind she used to use on [illegible]. She seemed dazed by the reception tendered her and when she tried to thank them broke down in the middle of her speech and cried. Many of the old-time boys and girls hid their eyes from the teacher, whose hair is now white. As they marched through the street they swung the switches they carried and sang "She Switched Us in '72."

The largest family reunion held today was that of the Yohe, Weygandt and Stretched families, with more than 200 members of the three branches of the family present, coming from four States.

The oldest living member of these families present today were Henry Yohe, aged 91 years, of Gettysburg; John Stecher, aged 76 years, of near here, and Mrs. Sadie Williams of this county. Members were present from Pennsylvania, Ohio, Iowa and Oklahoma, and hundreds of letters recevied from all parts of the county were read. The officers of the family are president, Isaac Yohe; sceretary and treasurer, A. J. Yohe, both of this place. Ginger Hill, near here, will be the place of meeting next year, as has been the custom in the past, that being the original settling place of the families.

McKeesport was the best represented of any town today and tonight the railroad companie stated that they had sold 3,800 round trip tickets out of that place to this city up to noon today.

A. T. McAlister was chief marshal of tonight's parade, with H K. Bentley, adjutant general. They were assisted in organizing the parade by 100 aids, who were appointed yesterday. Members of the fraternal orders of McKeesport, Belle Vernon, Charleroi and several other towns arrived on special trains they had chartered for the occasion, while many from Pittsburg and towns nearby arrived on chartered cars over the line of the Pittsburg and Charleroi Street Railway company.

Each order marched in a body and many brought their own bands with them. Tonight's parade of fraternal orders is said to be the largest united celberation of different orders ever held in the State.

BRIDGE CONTRACT WILL BE LET

It is likey that the Fort Pitt Bridge company, of Canonsburg, will be awarded the contract of the erection of the joint county bridge over [illegible] hela to take the place of the old Williamsport pike bridge.

Yesterday William Wylie, road and bridge engineer of Washington county, Solicitor Brownson, Clerk H E. Campbell and the county commissioners met with the Allegheny county commissioners and J. G. Chalfant, the Allegheny county engineer, for the purpose of tabulating bids that had been received.

The Canonsburg concern bid against numerous Pittsburg firms. Fort Pitt Bridge works was by far the lowest of any which, was calculated by Engineer Wylie, are: Fort Pitt Bridge works, $217,042; King Bridge company, $234,112; McClintock-Marshall, $236,414; American Bridge company, $298,000; Penn Steel works, $248,780; Mt. Vernon Bridge, $247,030; Penn Bridge, $247,345; Stroebal Steel Construction company, $272,594; Toledo Massilon, $246,330.

Superstructure—3 trusses 455 feet long each, with a 24-foot roadway on which are two street car tracks one six-foot wide walk, floors and all wood work of treated kerodore construction.

Substructure—Two river piers of stone on pile and concret foundations and two concrete abutments with wrings and reinforced with steel. Approaches are to be filled and paved.

BABY DROWNS IN A CISTERN

Waynesburg, Sept. 10.—A tiny baby slipper on a cistern's edge and the covering of the well removed was the first clew as to the tragic fate of five-year-old Wayne Coston, who was drowned this afternoon in ten feet of water in the cistern of D. W. Downey, of this place.

The little fellow was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Ollie and Margaret Coston, colored. His mother had been employed at the Downey residence today. This afternoon he was missed and a search of the preimses disclosed the shoe that had probably been kicked off as he gazed down into the dark depths of the cistern, leaned over the edge and losing his balance plunged headlong into the water. Wayne's body was brought from the water by E. B. Throckmoron and Bert Kinehart.

One of the original Conestoga wagons has been found by Charles Jarr, an antiquarian of Lancaster, on the farm of National Groff, of Fruitville, near Lancaster. It will be used in the Founders' week parade in Philadelphia in October, drawn by six horses from the farm of F. H. Kaufman, near Lancaster.

Professor Joseph Rostan, of Philadelphia, in a crowd at the gate of the baseball grounds at Shamokin, on Monday, was robbed by a pickpocket of $150 in cash and several gold rings.

Beallsville, Sept. 10.—The horse and buggy belonging to Marvin Frederick, of Beallsville, which was stolen at the Sandy Plains fair last week has been returned by the owner.

Wednesday a week ago a stranger drove up in front of Brown's livery barn at Masontown and then departed. Mr. Brown thought he was a drummer and stabled the horse. He did not call for it, and after keeping it a week he heard of Mr. Frederick's missing horse and buggy. Investigation proved that it was the property of Frederick.

SMALL PIG COSTS AN IMMENSE SUM

The case of misdemeanor brought by Health Officer Frazier, of Monessen, against David Greenawald, former manager of the Independent Meat Grocery Co., was tried for the second time in the Greensburg courts yesterday. The second trial occupied less time than the first but the results were more pronounced. The jury after an hour of deliberation divided the costs between the defendant and Moris Rozner, a rival butcher, upon whose information Officer Frazier brought the suit. The costs amounted to $193.15 and considering that a small pig furnished the bone of contention the little flyer in pork ala court is likely to rest vividly in the memory of the principals for some time.

The readers of The Mail will likely recollect that in December last a pig, alleged to have been tainted was purchased by an attache of the Rozner market from the Independent market. The health officer was summoned and suit was brought before a local justice. Mr. Greenawall was held for court trial. That the act was prompted by business jealousy was one of Greenawald's contentions, and he further claimed that he had giver orders that the pig was not to be sold. His absence from the shop was taken advantage of to secure the pig from a clerk he claimed.

After 25 hours deliberation a former jury failed to reach a decision. This time the jury went out at 4 o'clock and returned at 5 o'clock with a verdict dividing the costs.

BLOCK SOCIAL NEXT WEEK

The Ladies' Aid Society of Christ Lutheran church are holding a Block Carnival next week on Washington avenue between Fifth and Sixth streets. This carnival will be held three nights, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, 17-19. It is to be one of the features of Charleroi, and no one will want to miss being there. One of the many interesting features is the Queen Contest for the most popular lady in the Aid Society. The Mail will publish each evening the results of the day's voting. Each vote will cost one cent, and any one may vote as many times as desired. The contest will open tonight and the first report will appear in tomorrow evening's Mail. The contest will close Saturday evening, Sept 19. The lady receiving the highest number of votes will be considered the most popular.

Who will it be? Watch the Daily Mail the whole of next week: it will be interesting. Henong's Drug Store is one of the places of voting.

The Duties of Peace Officers

The stories of the New Haven shooting are radically conflicting, and until the matter is sifted in court judgment will have to be suspended by those who desire to be just and impartial.

As a rule the officer of the law is entitled to the benefit of the doubt when the testimony is conflicting for two very obvious reasons: 1. Because he deals with the reckless and criminal classes whose testimony is often characteristic of themselves; 2. Because he is presumed to be chosen by the people with a view to his fitness, and among his qualifications is the capacity to sink his personality in the greater duty of conserving the peace and enforcing the law impartially and courageously. There is consequently this presumption in his favor.

The officer who uses his position for purposes of oppression of revenge, the gratification of silly vanity or petty malice, abuses his authority and besmirches the majesty of the law he pretends to represent; and when accused of exceeding his duty, proof of any of these wrongs or weakness can will tend to deprive him of the benefit of the doubt accorded to his official station.

We are all equal before the law, and in its administration the American sense of justice will tolerate no suspicion of personal motive. The judges who hear the causes in court are so jealous of their honor that they will sit in no case in which they may have the remotest connection, and the jurors who sit in judgment on the facts are chose with strict regard to their freedom from the least suspicion of bias.

To keep their official conduct free from the same suspicion, peace officers should mode it on similar lines. They should shun arrogance and cultivate dignity; avoid excitabiltiy and practice patience; eschew boisterous language and keep their tempers under the most trying conditions; be courteous and obliging, but firm and undiscriminating; all of the end that the authority of their office be respectable duties may be done without resort to violence or bloodshed.

Violent and unreasonable offenders sometimes render fore, and even violence and bloodshed, necessary to the proper enforcement of the law. Whether that was the case in New Haven remains to be determined, as stated above, when the evidence is all in; in the meantime, however, these general observations are commended to peace officers generally.

EXPERTS VISIT COAL FIELDS

Fayette county coal and coke men are greatly interested in the visit to the coal regions of the United States of three foreign experts, Victor Wateyne of Belgium, Capt. Arthur Desbrough of England and Karl Meissner of Germany, who were invited by the United States government and are guests of the government.

mines and plants of this country, learning all about the methods of mining here, conferring with prominent coal men in return are giving the mining interests of this country the benefit of their expert knowledge of mining and explaining the systems used in foreign countries.

Mining operations in foreign countries are much more difficult and hazardous than in the United States, for in Europe many of the mines go down a distance of 3,000 feet and the operators and miners must have a very thorough knowledge of the gases and how to combat them and all the methods to bring about successful, safe and profitable mining.

During the present week these expert have been in Pittsburg and among those who met and conferred with them there were Attorney Geo. D. Howell, president of the Tower Hill-Connellsville Coke company, and Geo. Whyel, general manager of the Consolidated Connellsville Coke company. Mr. Howell went there by special invitation of J. A. Holmes, expert in charge of the technologic branch of the geological survey, and was much interested in the subjects discussed there.

The government has appropriated $150,000 for the testing station of the United States geological survey which is being built in Pittsburg, and will be opened in December which will instruct mine foremen fire bosses and others on the theory of explosions and give infomation of vital importance to those who work in the mines.

The movement has been started to celebrate the opening of this testing station in December with a great International Mining Congress to be held in Pittsburg to which the ambassadors of all foreign countries will be invited and the great mining interests of this country will be represented by men of recognized authority. For instance John Hays Hammond will be delegate for the copper interests and it is not likely anyone else would be designated for the coal interests than J. V. Thompson of Uniontown, who is generally conceded as being the best posted man that could be secured on this subject.

The three foreign experts mentioned above went from Pittsburg to visit the Illinois coal fields and will go from there to Utah and Washington mines. They will return to Pittsburg in October and it is expected to get them to visit and inspect the Fayette county region at that time.

The opening tests at the station in Pittsburg were made this week for the benefit of these mining experts. The tests will probably extend over several months and no official data of the results will be given out until they are over.

The first test was made with a ballistic pendulum, in which black powder was exploded to determine weight equivalent in explosive force to one-half pounds of 70 per cent dynamite.

GOOD PRACTICE BY WEST WASHINGTON

Football practice by the West Washington squad will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon instead of in the evening as during the week. "Budget" Seaman who expected to coach the West Enders last evening could not be on hands but has promised to come to the Fair grounds tomorrow afternoon.

Practices has been hard and very successful. Shan Margerum, the Washington and Jefferson Acedemy coach was out Wednesday evening and gave the candidates some valuable pointers. Manager Kahl is in communication with teams that if games are secured it will mean extensive trips for the West Washington eleven.

Health Commissioner Says Water Should be Boiled.

Realizing the added danger from the tpyhoid fever that results from the present low condition of the streams throughout Pennsylvania State Health Commissioner Dixon has given out a letter to the public urging the need of special caution against unboiled water.

Dr. Dixon states that although municipalities all over the state are operating with the deparment of health to bring about the purifying of the streams, it must necessarily be years before the filthy conditions that prevailed for so many generations can be eradicated.

In the three years of the state department of health's existence thousands of stream pollutions have been abated, and a great campaign of education has been carried on, attended with the most encouraging results. A large number of municipalities have either built sewage disposal plants and water filtration systems, or are at work on them and there has come to be a general belief in the wisdom and necessity of the law which provides for the ultimate freeing of the waters [illegible]

"Our work, however," says Health Commissioner Dixon, "extends over 45,000 square miles, inhabited by 7,000,000 people, who for over a century have been using our streams for open sewers or depositing the sewage so that it washed into the waters that were used for drinking and other domestic purposes. Much has been accomplished, but our people must not be deceived. Typhoid fever is still a present curse, and we must not relax our vigilance in guarding against its invasion.

"Especially is this true just now when so many of our streams are at a low ebb, resulting in more concentrated typhoid fever poison than we have where the same quantity of poison is poured into a greater volume of water.

"While the health authorities are doing all in their power under the law to have the vast number of old and bad sewerage systems changed and to have the private sources of pollution removed, the people must listen to advice and boil all the water that comes from the surface streams and from all other sources which are exposed to the infection of the poison of typhoid fever. Unless the people do heed this advice and go hand in hand with the health authorities by taking every precaution, they run a very great risk of contracting typhoid fever. I feel it my duty to sound this warning at this time.

Kept Marriage a Secret.

West Alexander, Sept. 10.—The wanderings of a traveling man which took him to Cumberland, Md., revealed the marriage of a prominent young couple of West Alexander which they had hoped to keep a secret for some time to come. The young couple, however, acknowledged that they were married and are now receiving the congratulations of their friends. They are George Donley, a well known young carpenter, and Miss Margaret Strouse.

Mr. Donley and Miss Strouse were married in Cumberland on Saturday, August 23, in the parlors of the Queen City hotel at 9:30 p. m. They returned home on Sunday following and no one was any the wiser. They were congratulating themselves about how well they were keeping the secret until James Waitier, who resides at this place and travels for a Pittsburg grocery firm, arrived home from Cumberland where he had been on business. While in Cumberland Mr. Waitier was conversing with a minister who asked him about Mr. Donley and Miss Strouse stating that he had united them in marriage two weeks previous. When Mr. Waitier returned home he informed his friends and later Mr. and Mrs. Donley acknowledged their marriage. Their parents had not been informed it is stated.

Miss Strouse left home on August 23 stating that she was going to Wheeling to visit a cousin. Donley had left West Alexander a few hours previous stating that he was going to Moundsville. The two met at Wheeling and borded a train for Cumberland at 10 o'clock.

It is understood that there was no objections to the marriage beyond the fact that the bride had not yet reached her 19th year. The young people of town gave Mr. and Mrs. Donley a rousing serenade and afterward were invited in to partake of refreshments. They will reside for the present with the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Donley.

The West Chester state normal school re-opened on Monday with more than 500 students enrolled.

There is a certain mother in East Washington who is looking for a rag collector of Washington, and if she catches him he will be told a few things about rag men in general and himself in particular that will cause him to be on guard in his business dealings in the future.

The lady in question is the happy mother of twin sons. One of these future presidents the other day heard the rag man's calling, and asked his mother to explain the man's business. The mother carefully expounded to the youngster the nature of the rag man's calling. A day or so later the mother noticed that this particular youngster was running about in his bare feet, and asked him where his shoes and stockings were. The five-year-old boy looked wise and answered promptly, "sold. 'em."

"Who to," asked his mother.

"The rag man," answered the boy.

"How much did you get for them," was the next question.

"Five cents," the boy replied.

"But what did you do with the money?" asked the mother.

"Candy." laconically replied the boy. The rag man is leaving that

Making More Than a Living

Nearly every man who works steadily makes more than a living. During these slow times the men who have saved something appreciate what it is to have something laid away for a rainy day. A few cents a day soon counts up, and when savings are placed in a bank at a tidy interest the sum soon grows to proportions that make it a safeguard against want when work is not plentiful. Figure up how much more than a living you are making now, and place the difference in this bank. Four per cent. intereet paid in savings department.

The Store that Advocates Law Compelling Truth in Advertising!

When a store fools you into entering its doors by Fictitious Newspaper Values, it will fool you again when it gets you there! If you are set on looking elsewhere before coming to Adolph's, keep both eyes wide open and beat a hasty retreat when they tell you they are "just out, but have something else as good!" We can quote wonderful prices in the newspapers and GIVE YOU THE GOODS EXACTLY AS ADVERTISED, because we buy them right and have a little expense and do a volume of business doubly that of any other local house in same line. If every store told the good old truth in their advertising, our prices would show in comparison 25 to 50 per cent. lower in the newspapers, just as they do when your own eyes have actually investigated!

AN AMERICAN HERO.

He Used His Own Body to Stop a Leak in a Ferryboat.

One morning in January, when the ice in the Hudson river ran unusually heavy, a Hoboken ferryboat slowly crunched her way through the floating floes until the thickness of the pack choked her paddles in midriver. It was an early morning trip, and the decks were crowded with laboring men and the driveways choked with teams. The women and children standing inside the cabins were a solid mass up to the swinging doors. While she was gathering strength for a further effort an ocean tug sheered to avoid her, veered a point and crashed into her side, cutting her below the water line in a great V shaped gash. A moment more and the disabled boat careened from the shock and fell over on her beam, helpless. Into the V shaped gash the water poured a torrent. It seemed but a question of minutes before she would lunge headlong below the ice.

Within 200 yards of both boats and free of the heavy ice steamed the wrecking tug Reliance of the Offshore Wrecking company, and on her deck forward stood Captain Scott. When the ocean tug reversed her engines after the collision and backed clear of the shattered wheelhouse of the ferryboat he sprang forward, stooped down, ran his eye along the water line, noted in a flash every shattered plank, climbed into the pilothouse of his own boat and before the astonished pilot could catch his breath pushed the nose of the Reliance along the rail of the ferryboat and dropped upon the latter's deck like a cat.

With a threat to throw overboard any man who stirred he dropped into the engine room, met the engineer halfway up the ladder, compelled him to return, dragged the mattresses from the crew's bunks, stripped off blankets and snatched up clothes, overalls, cotton waste and rags of carpet, cramming them into the great rent left by the tug's cutwater.

It was useless. Little by little the water gained, bursting out first below, then on one side, only to be calked out again and only to rush in once more.

Captain Scott stood a moment as if undecided, ran his eye searchingly over the engine room, saw that for his needs it was empty, then deliberately tore down the top wall calking he had so carefully built up and before the engineer could protest forced his own body into the gap, with his arm outside level with the drifting ice.

An hour later the disabled ferryboat, with every soul on board, was towed into the Hoboken slip.

When they lifted the captain from the wreck he was unconscious and barely alive. The water had frozen his blood, and the floating ice had torn the flesh from his protruding arm from shoulder to wrist. When the color began to creep back to his cheeks he opened his eyes and said to the doctor who was winding the bandages:

"Wuz any of them babies hurt?"

A month passed before he regained his strength and another week before the arm had healed so that he could get his coat on. Then he went back to the Reliance.—Everybody's Magazine.

A Lesson in Patience.

When the eminent botanist, Professor Aitman of Glasgow, was a small boy, he had the present of a silver bit, whereupon his mother was so worried with questions as to what he should do with it that she exclaimed, "Really, you had better go to Thomas Elliot's (a well known pharmacist) and buy sixpence worth of patience."

Down the street marched the lad and demanded of the chemist, "Mr. Elliot, please give me sixpence worth of patience."

Mr. Elliot, taking in the situation at a glance, said: "Certainly, my boy; there's a chair. Just sit down and wait till you get it."

Professor Aitman's endeavor to purchase patience was a great success. It made a deep impression on the lad and was one of the factors of his success in life.

Outreasoning Reason.

Little Raymond's mother had told him that she should put him to bed if he disobeyed her command in a certain matter. Temptation overcame him, and when his mother proceeded to fulfill her duty sobs of anguish filled the room.

"But, Raymond," said the mother gently, "I told you I should punish you in this way if you disobeyed, and mother must keep her word, you know."

The Tactful Doctor.

A physician in a small town in northern Michigan got himself into a serious predicament by his inability to remember names and people. One day while making out a patient's receipt his visitor's name escaped him. Not wishing to appear so forgetful and thinking to get a clew, he asked her whether she spelled her name with an "e" or "i." The lady smilingly replied, "Why, doctor, my name is Hill."—Success Magazine.

Your Enemies.

Don't make enemies unnecessarily. Your friends don't do much for you, as you all know, but your enemies will lie awake nights looking for opportunity to take a shot at you. And you all know that too.—Atchison Globe.

An Idiotic Performance.

The idiotic peformance of the Nebarska senator, Mr. Burkett, has again raised that precious saininity of an issue, Mr. Taft's religious affiliations. In a recent speech at Lincoln, Senator Burkett was so unwise as to denounce as a wicked invention for the enemy the story that Mr. Taft was a Unitarian. The report to that effect, he declared, was started for political purposes, and, in his opinion, it was shameful. Mr. Burkett "put his foot in it," from all sorts of angles, by charging the democrats with trying to make out "Mr. Taft a Catholic, an infidel or a Unitarian, and now it appeared he was not even a Unitarian." In support of this statement the Nebraska senator read a letter from a Presbyterian clergyman in Cincinnati saying that Mr. Taft did not belong to the Unitarian church. Mr. Burkett's discomfiture is complete now that Mr. Taft's secretary has written to him the horrible truth, and the democrats in that religion, who indignantly deny that they are raising a religious issue, are correspondingly elated over the mess the senator has made of the matter.

Meteorological.

Little Carleton was a child of the south, having been born in Mexico, and lived there until he came to "the States" with his parents when four or five years of age. But, though unacquainted with the American climate, he had been brought up on good American customs and foodstuffs. The first sight of snow excited him greatly. After looking out of the window earnestly he turned and exclaimed:

"Oh, Aunt Betty, see the popped raindrops!"—Woman's Home Companion.

Reassured.

"G-g-good evening," said the young man, who had come to speak to the girl's father.

"Good evening," replied the old gentleman. "You look a little nervous. How do you feel?"

"Flattered," replied the young man. "I was afraid I looked scared to death."—Minneapolis Journal
